Art. W. Schork. Public Junior High School. Yearbook. 1964

Allen County Public Library
900 Webster Street
PO Box 4170
Fort Wayne IN 46801-2270

As the school year of 1963-1964 draws to a close, the memory of the shocking death of a great president, John Fitzgerald Kennedy, is imprinted forever upon the mind of each Harrison Hill student. We feel that if we emphasize patriotism, in all that we do, we may be doing our part to see that such a thing will not happen again in the history of our country.

It is with this in mind that . . .

HARRISON HILL JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL
FORT WAYNE, INDIANA
VOLUME III

Harrison Hill Accentuates Patriotism:

The Pledge of Allegiance to the flag is an integral part of each day at Harrison Hill.

Service workers collect boxes of food contributed by the students for Christmas Bureau distribution.

Another school year has been completed, but the students will never forget the special events or even the smaller ones that made up each school day. The Pledge of Allegiance, said in the classrooms each morning, begins the day by helping the students perform their schoolwork in the best attitude of patriotism. The students who participate in extra activities such as helping in the school cafeteria during lunchtime, and who contribute to the needy families show a good example of patriotism in their daily lives.

Making it possible to see that the pupils and teachers get their food are the cafeteria student helpers.

In Athletic Extra-Curricular Activities . . .

Crowds find a football game a good time to let off steam and cheer on the football team.

Assistant football coach, William Mitchell, instructs the team on a play.

Girls volley the ball over the net in pregame practice.

"Oh, say can you see . . ." These words are familiar because they are part of our national anthem, the "Star-Spangled Banner." Throughout the year there have been numerous sports events and the Hawks were backed by the student body. Before the game begins, every eye is on the flag and every right hand is on the heart to show that we are proud of our country and our school. We want everyone to know that we are proud to be living in "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

During Homeroom, Student Council Guidance Sessions . . .

Minutes of a previous meeting receive the attention of Mr. Glenn Mulligan, student council members, and officers Susan Roehm, James Lohman, and Rodney Gerig.

Under the direction of Mr. Glenn Mulligan and its officers, James Lohman, president; Rodney Gerig, vice-president; and Susan Roehm, secretary; the Student Council represents student opinion to the school administration and represents the combined thinking of both school authorities and students to the homeroom membership.

During this school year the Student Council developed the Junior High Code for students. Each homeroom studied this code through panels, skits, and discussions.

Also during this year the Council undertook the honored duty of having two members of the Student Council raise the United States flag each morning. In addition, the Council was responsible for the presentation and discussion of pamphlets "You and the Law." These pamphlets stress knowledge and respect of law and authority.

On the social level, the Council sponsored a dance for eighth and ninth graders and a get-acquainted party for the seventh graders.

Susan Klooze, Charles McNagny, Dick Hoagland, Neil Weikart, and Cindy Philbrook of Miss Withers' homeroom enact a courtroom scene dramatizing the booklet "You and the Law."

Mr. Leininger prepares announcements for the day.

Devotion to country directly implies devotion to ones profession. According to this standard, Mr. Kermit Leininger, principal of Harrison Hill Junior High School, typifies patriotism to his country, through devoted service to his profession, his school, his teachers, and his students. His every day is packed from beginning to end with meetings—administrative meetings, principals meetings, teachers meetings, PTA meetings — conferences with parents, students, teachers; classroom visitations, preparing of schedules, attendance at all school functions.

Despite these obvious, and many other less obvious, pressing duties, Mr. Leininger can always find time for a helpful word and pleasant smile to all Harrison Hill citizens. Truly, Mr. Leininger is a living symbol of patriotism at Harrison Hill.

Mr. Leininger and Mr. Mulligan work as a capable team to insure the efficient functioning of Harrison Hill.

With The Aid Of Principal And Staff Assistant . . .

Mr. Mulligan reflects on a guidance problem.

Working directly with the principal, Staff Assistant Glenn Mulligan is primarily concerned with guidance at Harrison Hill. Mr. Mulligan can always be counted on to be easy to approach with any problems, large or small, and since he is such a kind and ready listener, "guidance" has become a helpful and pleasant experience for many Harrison Hill students.

In The Field Of Science And Mathematics . . .

Ralph Tourkow and Marsha Pond work interest problems for their fellow classmates.

Classes pertaining to mathematics and science are an essential part of the curriculum of junior high students. Different concepts of mathematics are learned in the ninth grade in algebra and general mathematics classes, while the two kingdoms of the world, plant and animal, are discussed in biology and general science. Seventh and eighth graders study the basic skills and concepts in arithmetic and science.

Miss Danuser checks geometry proofs of Janet Plummer and Chad Stettler.

Science students, Julie Inskeep and Hutch Smith, view science project.

Biology students learn the proper use and care of the microscope.

Social Studies, Physical Education, And Health . . .

Margaret Neuenschwander and Tara Boitet take a peek to see "what's cookin'," in home economics class.

Mrs. Kinsey observes the work of two of her art students, Carol Kettler and Richard Hoagland.

Sally Fiske, Ellen Young, Jane Yates, and Cindy Shireman present a skit about the Civil War.

Mrs. Lorraine Tipton and Mrs. Betty Leakey, school secretaries, are responsible for the efficiently kept records for both junior high and elementary schools. Obvious tasks include paper and secretarial work, answering of the continuously ringing phones, and filing. Lending a sympathetic ear to students and teachers alike, soothing scratched knees and bruised elbows, locating lost articles, and lending lunch money are a few of the many less obvious services of these ladies.

With Invaluable Assistance Of Many People

Maintaining the mechanical functions of school are Elmer Lohmeyer, head custodian; Mrs. Rose Buerkle, matron; and Paul Claymiller, engineer. In the second row are custodians Burnell Bender, Ralph Baysinger, and James Blanks.

ACTIVITIES

Student Council members discuss "You and the Law" with Mr. Leininger and Mr. Mulligan prior to entering the auditorium for an assembly. The topic of the assembly, sponsored by the Student Council, was student responsibility to the law.

Vista Staff Readies Theme-Centered Yearbook

Diane Knigge, editor, and Nancy Auer, club editor, write headlines and cutlines for the Vista.

"Bieed pages" and "cut-lines," although sounding slightly surgical, are only two of the many terms, such as running heads, dummy, panels, and deadlines, which become part of the everyday language of the Vista staff.

Planning the 1964 Vista, the staff aims to present a theme-centered story of the important school events of the past year. Under the supervision of Miss Mary Catherine Hahn, the major staff of the Vista is comprised of Diane Knigge, editor; Barbara Simmons, assistant editor; Linnea Kettler, sports editor; Nancy Auer, club editor; Barbara Neff, class editor; Jayne Carithers, faculty editor; Penny Samet, circulation editor; and Sandy Rothberg, photographer.

It is the wish of the staff that the students derive as much satisfaction and pleasure from the Vista as the staff had pleasure and satisfaction in compiling the book.

Preparing the dummy for the yearbook, the Vista Staff assembles the pages in order to meet the deadline.

Journalism Club, under the sponsorship of Miss Mary Catherine Hahn, enables the members to study and apply the basic fundamentals of journalism to the school paper.

Beacon Staff Ends Year On Note Of Achievement

Taking care that all Hawks are kept informed about their school and its activities during the year is the task of the Harrison Hill Beacon staff. Headed by Cathy Deal, editor-in-chief; Gloria McVay, assistant editor; Sue Roehm and Sue Keith, news editors; Laura Azar, feature editor; Sally Rietdorf, sports editor, and assisted by their advisor, Miss Mary Catherine Hahn, the staff works hard to compile each month's issue for distribution to students and faculty. Meetings of entire staff every Monday, seventh period, serve the two-fold purpose of giving reporters opportunity to work on stories and increasing the staff's fundamental knowledge of journalism.

While it is not an easy job running a paper, the staff has enjoyed bringing the Beacon to the students.

Beacon members admire the Columbia Scholastic Press Association first place award to the Vista and hope that they may receive such an award for the Beacon.

There are two clubs in Harrison Hill whose members serve others while they are helping themselves. The service club, sponsored by Mrs. Virginia Loveland is designed to help teachers with their responsibilities. The Library Club under the direction of Mrs. Donna Lesh is designed to give students a chance to help their classmates and teachers while at the same time they are learning more about books and library operations.

Student librarians check books, file cards, shelve books, write overdue notices, and arrange bulletin board displays.

The Service Club has successfully served the teachers of Harrison Hill in the elementary grades in addition to the junior high teachers, this year. In addition to helping individual teachers, the Service Club collected packaged goods for the Christmas bureau.

Mrs. Donna Lesh explains book filing to Susan Hoover and Phyllis Davis while other Library Club members check the card catalogue.

Service, Library, Y-Teen Workers Help Others

Cheryl Campbell, Beth Liby, Liffy Keck, Shelley Gargett, and Polly Rea, of the steering committee, guide the Service Club in its functions.

Y-Teens is a fellowship of young girls who are striving for better relationships between themselves and others. This club aims to build character and friendship. Miss Dixie Clark is the advisor and sponsor of this club. Dannette McConkey, Sylvia Brumbleloe, and Leeann Penny are officers of the 1963-64 school year.

The members of this organization sponsor a Christmas party, a Valentine's Day dance, and service projects, such as Christmas caroling at a local nursing home. Y-Teens also has a picnic in the spring of the year.

While Learning Useful Skills Themselves

Seventh and eighth graders who are members of Y-Teens pose with sponsor, Miss Dixie Clark.

Junior Wranglers Enjoy Speech Improvement

Smiling for the camera is easy for Wranglers members and advisor, Mrs. Ann Gargett, when one of the members repeats a prize story from the Wranglers' program which featured anecdotes.

The Junior Wranglers Club meets every seventh period on Friday afternoons. Mrs. Ann Gargett, club sponsor, points out that the club's purpose is to promote better speech habits. Chad Stettler, chairman, is responsible for calling the meeting to order. Laura Azar, vice-chairman, plans the weekly programs which are varied. The secretary is Sally Reitdorf who takes roll call and reads the minutes. The Pledge of Allegiance is led by Barry Worman, Sergeant-at-arms.

The members of Junior Wranglers are able to participate in outstanding yearly activities. These include The Christmas Program, Lion's Club Oratorical Contest, and Ninth Grade Luncheon. In addition to having a good time, club members are given an opportunity for gaining poise and self-confidence by performing in front of a large group.

Wranglers present the Annual Pageant, which never fails to inspire reverence for the Christmas season.

This year Travel Club members and their sponsor, Mrs. Jeannette Smith, have traveled via projector to such diverse places as Moscow, the Smokey Mountains, the Holy Land, Japan, Scandinavia, and Disneyland.

Clubs Share Interest In Lands And People

Let's Travel Club gives seventh and eighth grade pupils a chance to share their travel experiences and to see and hear about those of others. Slides of our national shrines and parks are shown. Travel Club members also visit other countries of the world. This club is sponsored by Mrs. Jeannette Smith, and the officers are Gordon Siegel, president; and Peggy Bates, secretary.

The Heritage Club, under the direction of Miss Freda Withers, serves to encourage the interest of seventh and eighth grade students in their United States history. The officers are Tom Smith, president; and Warren Cole, program chairman.

Carol Triplett, Bruce Johnson, Barbara Bartels, and Warren Cole point out Civil War sites to fellow club members.

Howenstine exhibit the typing keyboard chart.

Novice Typists Strive For Speed With Accuracy

Due to the highest membership in the club's history, the sixty-four eighth grade students of this year's Typing Club meet on two separate nights. Mr. Hugh Howenstine, club sponsor, says that each member must supply his own portable typewriter and equipment. In addition to learning the skills necessary for typing, better spelling and writing habits are to be learned in Typing Club. To test the progress of the members, Mr. Howenstine gives a speed and accuracy test each week.

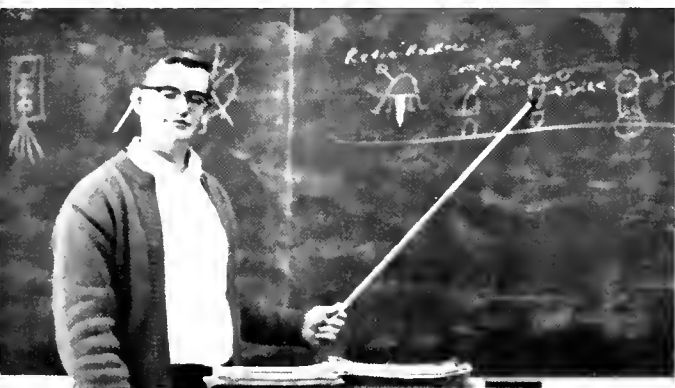

Mr. Hugh Howenstine gives typists Sally Clarke and Kaye Fichman a helpful suggestion.

Science, Mathematics Studies Intrigue Members

To enrich science knowledge is the purpose of the Science Club, sponsored by Mr. Edwin Day. The Club is conducted by the chairman, Sandy Rothberg. Mr. Day observed that in order to develop self-reliance in the students, the entire meeting is controlled by club members, and as sponsor he contributes helpful advice only when needed.

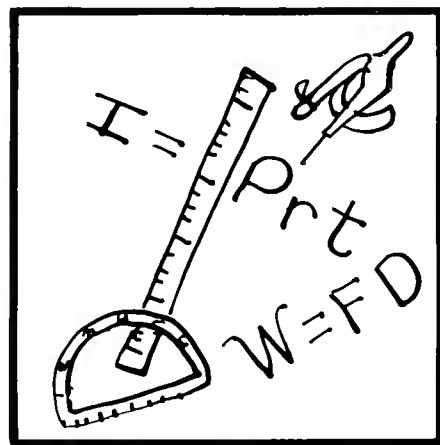

Sandy Rothberg demonstrates a telescope to the Science Club.

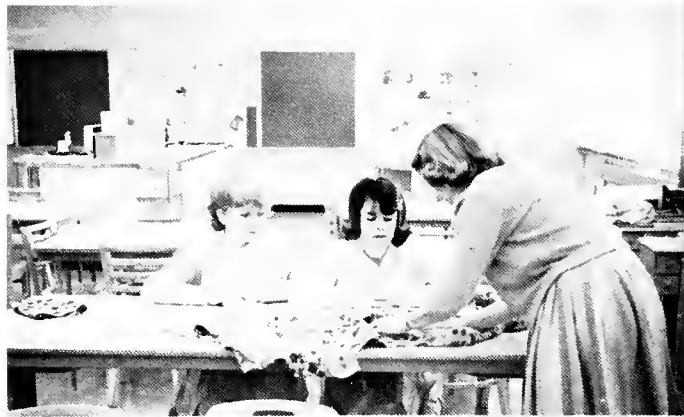

John Reiff explains the different stages in the launching of a rocket.

Mathematics Club members enjoy constructing polyhedrons and doing curve-stitching.

Mrs. Janice Zickgraf conducts Clothing Club not once a week, but twice a week, because of the large number of girls who wish to be members of this club. The club is primarily for the girls who are unable to elect homemaking for a class in the ninth grade and aims to teach pattern reading and clothing construction to these girls.

At the end of the year Mrs. Zickgraf will select a girl, who will be presented an award on Awards Day, for meeting certain requirements, including good attendance and the most garments made according to specific standards. An award will also be presented to the girl who has made the most progress during the year.

Barbara Clark and Pam Reese observe as Mrs. Zickgraf shows them how to attach the yoke to a dress.

Clothing Club Members Add To Wardrobes

Mrs. Janice Zickgraf aids in the selection of the proper pattern and fabric, which is of primary importance to clothing club members.

Avid "Shutterbugs" Vitalize Photography Club

Members of Photography Club are being shown how to use the enlarger.

Greg Lyst and Mike Adams enlarge a photograph.

"Please do not enter. Photography dark room," are the words on a sign which serves to convert Mr. Van Gehl's biology room into a meeting place for the Photography Club every Wednesday afternoon. To give an understanding of the fundamentals of photography and to guide the students to learn how pictures are made are the two main aims of the club. The group, with the aid of Sandy Rothberg and John Rhoads, officers, have made a darkroom and developed and enlarged pictures.

Designing, Building Create Opportunities

jects to members, Terry Seabold, Richard Ball, Phillip Cox, David Schwartz and Ed Korte.

Mr. H. Frank Goldman is the sponsor for the Industrial Arts Design and Mechanics Club. This seventh-period activity is for ninth grade boys who are not in a regular shop class. These boys are given an opportunity to continue their interest in designing and building. Also, the club gives newcomers a chance to participate in shop class. The club has David Schwartz as president;

Rick Ball, vice-president; Phil Cox, secretary-treasurer; and Terry Seabold, sergeant-at-arms.

Outstanding events of the club for the year have been tours of the Eckrich Packing Plant and the South Side Design and Mechanics Club. The boys enjoy being in the club and are glad of the opportunities it gives them of working in the shop.

Many of the prize-winning projects of the members of Industrial Arts and Design Club are displayed in the showcase.

Spelling Club members, with the aid of their sponsor, Miss Georgia Thompson, study words from the booklet "Words of the Champions."

Speech, Spelling Clubs Promote Good Habits

Each Tuesday night the spelling club meets under the direction of Miss Georgia Thompson. The main purpose of the club is to improve spelling habits and to apply them to schoolwork. The clubs officers are Nancy Howard, Larry Harding, and Diane Farhi. Selecting an entry for the National Spelling Contest is the highlight of the year.

Speech and Dramatics is sponsored by Mr. Urban Steckler. This club gives the opportunity to those who want to learn the art of public speaking, debate, parliamentary procedure, and dramatics

During a spelldown Miss Thompson pronounces a word for Joyce McNaghy.

Speech and Dramatics Club members, under the direction of sponsor, Mr. Urban Steckler, register proper dramatic expression for the command—"Smile."

The Chess Club, under the helpful guidance of Miss Ruth Whittern, is open to seventh and eighth grade students who are interested in learning better playing techniques for the mentally stimulating game of chess. The game of chess takes much concentration and once a week the members get together and practice playing against each other. The officers are Robert Swain, president; and John Schmidt, secretary.

There are two tournaments played during the year, and awards are presented on Awards Day to the tournament winners and to one person selected by the group as "Favorite Opponent."

Two Chess Club members ponder a move as the remainder of the club watches.

Chess, Art Offer Relaxation In Varied Ways

Keith Egly presents a picture of concentration as he contemplates his future moves.

Using different materials and techniques, the Art Club, sponsored by Mrs. Virginia Kinsey, gives eighth and ninth graders an opportunity to explore and experiment in the world of art. This experimentation is intended to develop mature and self-sufficient citizens, capable of making sound and reliable judgments.

Seventh Grade members of Glee Club have fun singing in preparation for their appearance in a concert.

Training Organizations Help To Benefit Students

Cadet Band gives seventh grade members a chance to develop musical skills. These skills should aid them when they become members of Concert Band in eighth grade.

Pupils Derive Extra Music Skills From Work

The Dance Band often provides music for school functions and dances.

Theory and Conducting members learn music techniques.

Triple Trio, sponsored by Miss Audrey Hochstetler, Theory and Conducting Club and the Dance Band sponsored by Mr. John Broom are clubs which try to promote a true interest in music. The goals of the clubs are to prepare music as a performing group, learn elementary theory and basic conducting, and to study different forms of dance band literature. Some of the activities the Dance Band and Triple Trio participate in are the Fall and Spring Concerts, school dances, and the ninth grade banquet. The three clubs have no officers because they are mainly interested in a basic knowledge of various forms of music.

Ninth grade members of Triple Trio enjoy harmonizing.

Concert Groups Provide Enjoyment For Audiences

Concert Orchestra members, under the direction of Mr. John Broom, tune up for a performance.

Public performance with ease is the purpose of both the Concert Choir and Concert Orchestra. Outstanding activities of the year for both groups are concerts and music assemblies.

Concert Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. John Broom, is assisted by officers Sandra Moyer, concert mistress; Bonnie Houtz, assistant concert mistress; and James Lohman, woodwind section leader.

Choir officers, Steve Weinraub, president; Polly Rea, vice-president; Sally Rietdorf, secretary; and Rodney Gerig, treasurer, assist Miss Audrey Hochstetler, choir director.

Concert Choir, led by Miss Audrey Hochstetler, brings music to many.

Future Musicians Work Diligently In Band

Mr. John Broom directs band during practice session.

The purpose of the Concert Band, under the leadership of Mr. John Broom, is to teach the students to play well together and to enable them to learn more about music, both individually and collectively.

The band plays at school concerts and participates in several contests throughout the year. Activities include participation in the Fall and Spring Concerts, music assemblies, basketball games, pep sessions, and the NISBOVA contest. Band officers are Jim Lohman, president; Ernest Harris, vice-president; and Janet Plummer, secretary.

Band members in full dress prepare to play for Fall Concert.

SPORTS

Head coaches and Mr. Leininger give recognition to students who maintain an A average and who are also members of Harrison Hill athletic teams.

Varsity Exemplifies Good Practice Techniques

Under the direction of their coach, Mr. William Mitchell, the varsity basketball team members always provided rousing sports action for the fans.

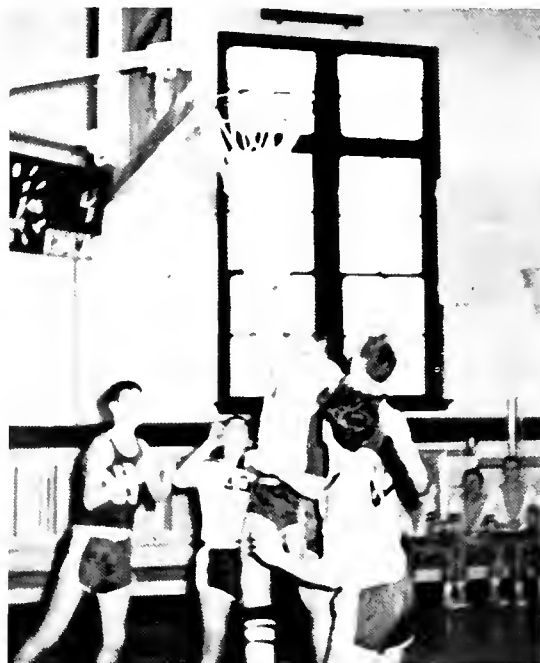

Varsity team under the coaching of Mr. William Mitchell worked energetically for its victories this year and gained the values of good sportsmanship and fair play in so doing. One could always find the boys in the gym after school, enthusiastically practicing, hoping to win the next game. Win or lose, the team always showed its courtesy and respect to the other teams.

Reserve Squad Improves Last Year's Record

The Reserve Basketball team was coached by Mr. Edward Innis. The experience gained by the boys on the team was much more important than the win-loss column. The knowledge gained by participation on the team will always be of value to the members.

The reserve squad put in many hours after school practicing new plays which Mr. Edward Innis showed them.

Cheerleaders Keep The Crowds Yelling

Elizabeth Markiton, Carolyn Russ, Janet Plummer, Sally Rietdorf, Tripp Marshall, Marcy Silberg, Sharon Kiger, and Nancy Auer practice a new cheer.

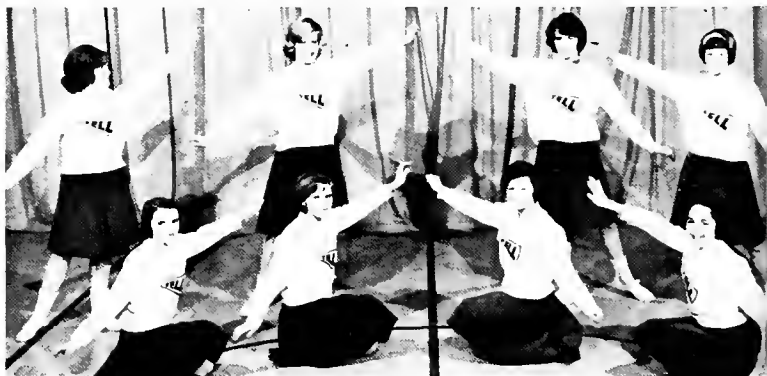

Ninth grade students who can be seen working during seventh periods on Tuesday in every nook and cranny available are Nancy Auer, Sharon Kiger, Elizabeth Markiton, Tripp Marshall, Carolyn Russ, Sally Rietdorf, and Marcy Silberg. The reason — cheerleading practice. These cheerleaders, under the direction of Miss Beverly Moore, work hard during the football and basketball games, leading the students in cheers to encourage the Hawks to victory. The Varsity Cheerleaders also lead cheers on Thursday mornings for the cheerblock, which was started by popular request this year.

Varsity cheerleaders lead the spectators in "Go Team, Go" during a time out.

The Reserve Squad of cheerleaders, under the direction of Miss Dixie Clark, was selected by the faculty and a representative group of junior high students to represent Harrison Hill and to lead the cheers at the reserve basketball games. They have exerted a lot of energy practicing and have always tried to do their best in gaining enthusiastic response to their cheerleading.

Reserve cheerleaders Gloria McVay, Polly Rea, Linda Reichert, Christine Tieman, Cindy Weilemann, Vicki Tripp, Julie Inskeep, and Susan Dicker brought forth hearty cheers at every game.

Varsity team members accumulated many points in football games against other schools.

Touchdowns, Tackles Are All Part Of Game

The ninth grade football team completed the '63 season with a record of two wins and four losses. The team was coached this season by Mr. Edward Innis, head coach; and Mr. William Mitchell, assistant coach. The Hawks are particularly proud of the win over Lakeside, the city junior high champions. The flag football team consists of seventh and eighth graders with a desire to play in organized games. The team compiled a three wins and three losses record with Mr. Franklin Geist as coach.

With the help of Mr. Innis and student managers Dan Appel and Mike Adams, the flag football team practiced many long hours.

Year Proves Profitable For Hawkettes

Under the supervision of Miss Moore, the ninth grade girls learned a great deal about sportsmanship and improvement of skills. Barbara Simmons served as president, and Leslie Tieman and Susan Roehm are vice-president and secretary respectively.

Officials Club, consisting of twelve ninth grade girls this year, exists to teach girls, who are interested in sports, how to officiate in order to assist in physical education classes, girls' intramurals, and tournaments. Miss Beverly Moore is the sponsor of Officials Club.

Ninth Grade Girls' Athletic Association, also sponsored by Miss Beverly Moore, aims to improve sportsmanship and team cooperation and to promote better playing techniques for girls interested in sports activities. The G.A.A. girls participate in soccer, basketball, and volleyball, and also in a city wide track meet in the spring.

Girls of the ninth grade GAA enjoy the skill and alertness of mind needed to play basketball.

GAA Keeps Seventh, Eighth Grade Active

Miss Moore directs the eighth grade GAA with the help of Sheryl Nelson, Phyllis Davis, and Merrilee

Gates. Working together, they choose activities in which most of the girls are interested.

The Girls Athletic Association is a state-founded organization with the purpose of giving girls, who are interested and skilled in sports, an opportunity to participate in activities beyond the physical education class. The association aims to develop qualities of sportsmanship and leadership through these sports activities. Each year the seventh and eighth grade girls are given the opportunity to participate in a volleyball sports-day or a track and field sports-day.

The officers for the eighth grade are Sheryl Nelson, president; Phyllis Davis, vice-president; and Merrilee Gates, secretary. The officers for the seventh grade are Vicki Tripp, president; Jan Walker, vice-president; and Laurie Bragg, secretary. The clubs are managed by the work of these girls and the help of their sponsor, Miss Beverly Moore.

Track Squad Completes Season At City Meet

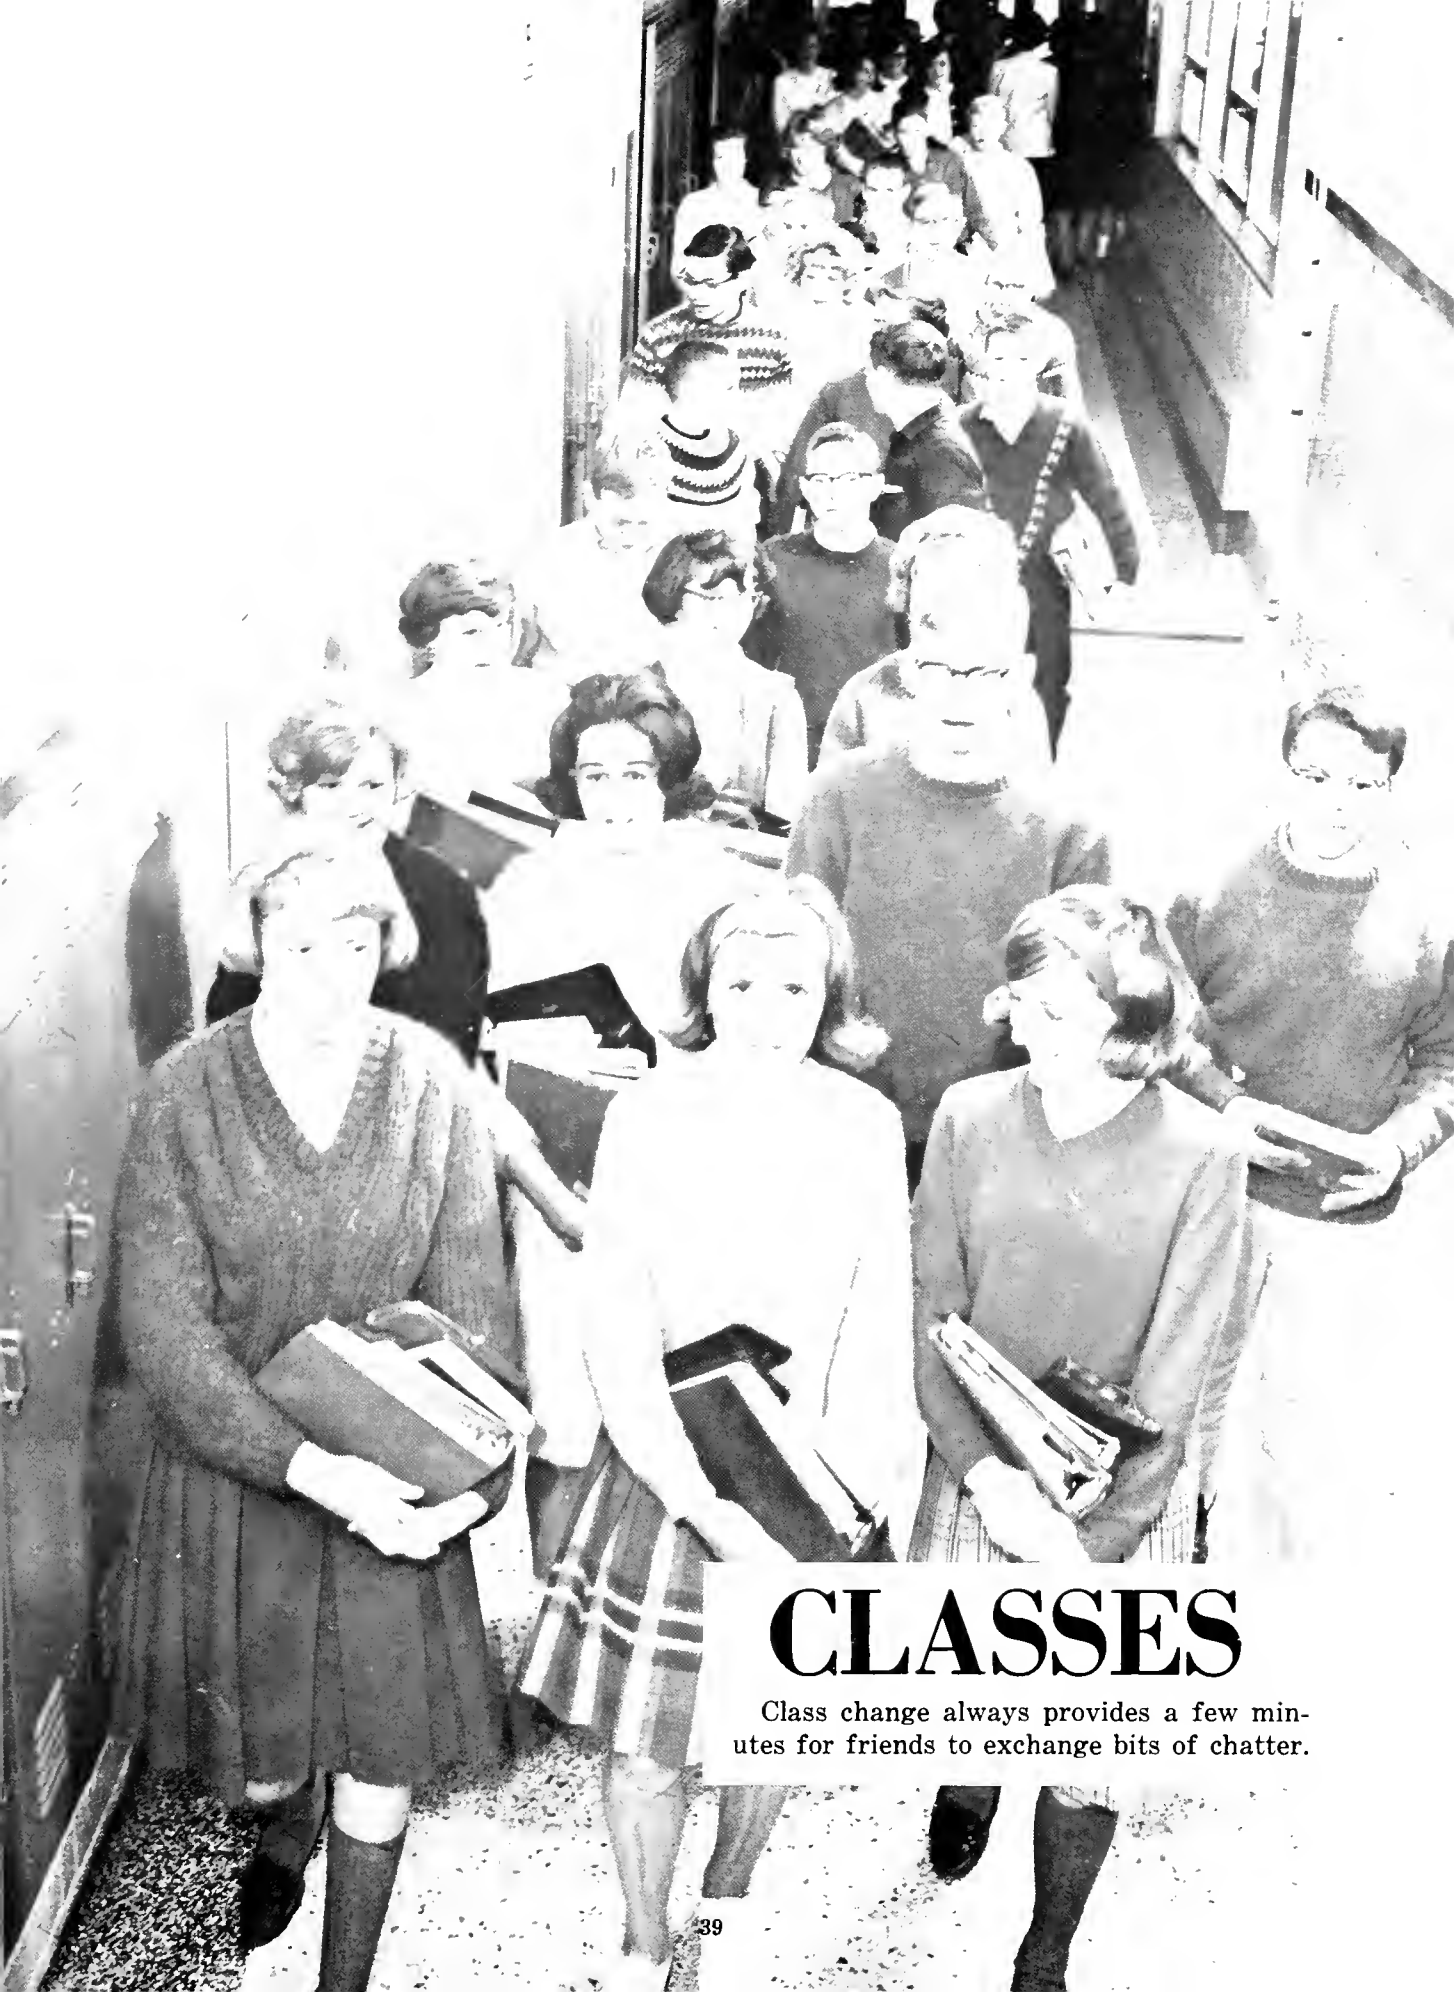

The purpose of boys intramurals is to give those boys not in athletics the chance to participate in sports. The opportunity to play football and basketball, and to participate in track, is given to these boys. During the year the boys can develop better physical endurance and high standards of play. Mr. William Mitchell sponsors the ninth grade while Mr. Franklin Geist is in charge of the seventh and eighth grade boys. In addition to the enjoyment the activity affords, good sportsmanship and many skills are learned.

Campaigns, Assemblies, Dances Are Fond Memories

The varsity team tried almost anything to get a basket during the faculty-varsity basketball game.

Cupid aimed his arrows and Harrison Hill had a Valentine's Day Dance.

Karen Knapp and Mike Adams, Junior Wranglers, studied campaign posters before casting ballots.

Principles, Values Form Patriotic Citizens

Though the classroom is deserted, though the students have gone home and the flag has been lowered, it is the fervent hope of all that the principles and values cultivated at Harrison Hill have done much to insure the formation of the patriotic, worthy citizen of tomorrow.
